

SUPPORTING FAMILIES CHANGING FUTURES

Children Live in Families Families Live in Communities

Data shows that children do better when they are with their families, in their community. We know that supported families have access to more resources, advocate for their child's needs more effectively, and enhance their skills as unique and talented caregivers. By treating and keeping children in their communities, we can support families better and change children's futures.

Supported Families Stay in Communities

Data shows sending youth to courts or correctional facilities increases risk of recidivism. These youth do better when they are able to stay in their community.

Communities need accessible treatment options that address their cultural and linguistic needs in order to provide effective community-based services and support for children, youth, and families with mental health needs.

Family driven and youth guided programs create long lasting and meaningful change that is tailored and applicable to each community.

Supported families and coordinated community care allows children to function better at home, at school, in the community, and throughout life.
